

February 6, 2020

Moore Institute Rm G011

11:30	Tadhg Ó hIfearnáin, NUIG	Contemporary Gaeltacht family language policy: core, periphery, and the multilingual setting
11:50	John P. MacCrae and Theodorus Fransen, NUIG	Cardamom: Comparative Models for Minority and Historical Languages
12:10	Micheál MacDonnacha, COGG	An Polasaí don Oideachas Gaeltachta 2017-2022, Immersion programme and its Consequences
12:30	Ciara O'Toole, UCC	Assessing and Diagnosing Language Disorder in a Minority Language: The Case of Irish
12:50	Ailbhe Randle, Stanislava Antonijevic, and John Walsh, NUIG	The performance of typically developing bilingual children and bilingual children with developmental language disorder on an Irish and English sentence repetition task.
Lunch 13.10
2	Saoirse Lally, NUIG	An analysis of the performance of typically developing Polish-English children on a Polish-English comparable sentence repetition task
2:20	Cassie Smith- Christmas, NUIG	What do we mean by 'intergenerational language transmission'? Using the saibhreas model in understanding synergies between school and FLP
2:40	Isabelle Barth, Multilingual Café	"Planting Languages - The seeds to success" An Erasmus+ project
3	Mary Pat O Malley, NUIG	Talk Nua: Making Research Accessible & Relevant For Multilingual Families
3.20	Fíodhna Gardiner- Hyland, Mary Immaculate	Listening to Teacher Voices: Issues with catering for children with EAL in Irish Primary Classes
3:40	Francesca La Morgia, Ulster University	Embracing linguistic diversity as a common goal: community initiatives meet national language strategies

Following Francesca La Morgia's talk, we will have a short general Network meeting, which will be followed by the launch of the Centre for Applied Linguistics (CALM; co-directors Dr. John Walsh and Dr. Laura McLoughlin), with Professor Helen Grech's talk at 5 pm to mark the launch.